LEARN HOW YOU CAN TRAVEL WITH BASANI

Why Travel?

Exploring new places in the world and being pampered for our hard work is something we all enjoy. Full Time employees deserve time off, and therefore regular companies will assign vacation days. At Karma Financial we do not have "vacation days", because our licensed professionals technically create our own schedules with respect to clients. Instead we give our agents incentive trips, fully paid vacations for dedicated producers in the company.

Agents can qualify for trips for helping clients, and these aren't your normal vacations either, they're all inclusive.

Work Hard, Travel Harder

KARMA FINANCIAL

Karma Financial's unique partnership with exclusive industry carriers has allowed industry producers to go company incentive trips for various insurance companies. These trips allow top producers to be recognized and give knowledge on the changes and requirements in the financial services industry. These trips are reserved for those individuals who put clients first and who perform at a top producer level.

Most companies have a unique production requirement for each producer to hit with various products. These bonuses reward hard-working financial specialists for going above and beyond for their clients and for placing strong business with the respective company.

Most people plan vacations far out in coordination with their "paid time off." Karma Financial encourages our agents to focus solely on helping clients and we will do the rest. These all-inclusive vacation packages allow producers to network with other industry professionals and enjoy exotic locations. Producers can qualify for more than one trip by fulfilling requirements with multiple partners and carriers within Karma Financial. This allows financial agents to travel like never before.

In addition to trips, companies offer a variety of bonuses for agents such as cash, cars, and other incentives in the effort to help more and more clients.
